Growing High-Tech Industry from University Research

Intellectual Property and Commercialization

OIPC welcomes UAF graduate, Joe Shaw from Montana State University. His talk will examine the parallel growth of education and industry in Bozeman, Montana that until recently was home to very few, if any, high-technology companies but now has dozens of high-technology companies. He will outline the events that initiated this development and the ongoing activities that continue to promote growth in both academia and industry. Joe will also speak about several specific principles that could help implement similar industry growth in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Joe Shaw, PhD.

Montana State University
Professor of Electrical &
Computer Engineering
Affiliate Professor of Physics
Director of Bozeman's
Optical Technology Center
